Thirty Years at Michel's

by Juliet Ames-Lewis

Almshouse resident Joy Sayles is celebrating the anniversary of her moving to the bungalow at Michel's thirty years ago.

She and husband Ken arrived in June 1990 and enjoyed many happy years together until Ken's sad passing in 2003. Since then she says she has continued to enjoy the friendship of many residents and the numerous events arranged by the Charities and Friends and Neighbours - and is looking forward to more occasions to get together after lockdown!

Are you a Creative Thinker?

Asking questions is an important ability for a creative person to have. As children, we probably asked our parents a bunch of questions. As we grow older, we tend to ask fewer and fewer questions. This is because once we reach a certain age, the questions become difficult enough that a parent or teacher may not have the patience or knowledge to answer them and this discourages us from asking further questions.

The other reason why adults do not ask questions is because it is an admission of ignorance and people do not like appearing ignorant. As a result people frequently will nod their heads and agree to things that they do not understand.

A creative thinker overcomes these obstacles and asks questions. In reality, asking questions doesn't make you appear stupid; it shows your inquisitive nature and often reveals how much more you know about something than the person you are asking. Not to mention that the question you are asking is probably the same one that everyone else in the room has in the back of their minds. You have nothing to lose and a whole lot to gain from asking questions.

What questions are on your mind? Let's see if we, as a community, can answer or discuss them! We will share questions and answers here, in each newsletter.

Let's get the right brain functions active!

Answers. Page 4. Brain Teaser. Mr. Froopaloop will marry Charlotte. Facts 1a and 3a tell us that Charlotte is either the only one with blue eyes or the only one without blue eyes. Facts 1b and 2a tell us that Brenda is either the only one with red hair or the only one without red hair. Facts 2b and 3b tell us that Charlotte is either the only one who is 5'11" or the only one who isn't 5'11". Fact 4 tells us that no one woman can have one characteristic while another has two characteristics. This gives us two scenarios:

1. Audrey has blue eyes, does not have red hair, and is 5'11". Brenda has blue eyes, red hair, and is 5'11". Charlotte does not have blue eyes, does not have red hair, and is not 5'11".

2. Audrey does not have blue eyes, has red hair, and is not 5'11". Brenda does not have blue eyes, does not have red hair, and is not 5'11". Charlotte has blue eyes, red hair, and is 5'11".

Fact 4a tells us that in scenario 1, Mr. Froopaloop will marry Charlotte. Fact 4b tells us that in scenario 2, Mr. Froopaloop will marry...Charlotte.

Poetry Corner

by Nigel Davis

W. H. Auden (1907 – 1973) had a remarkable range as a poet. He would, I think, be acknowledged by most people as one of the poetry giants of the 20th Century – though, for me, Philip Larkin, among others, has the edge. Rather like TS Eliot, Auden prided himself on being a craftsman, a true practitioner of the art of poetry: he was not someone to embrace notions of romantic or sentimental “inspiration” in the manner of many 19th Century poets.

This poem, written in 1935, invites (in fact, commands) the onlooker to take in both the sights and sounds of a seascape, the panorama extending also to the ships far distant at sea and the clouds moving overhead. It is almost like a painting in words. And, as always, it is a poem to read out aloud – if you do, perhaps you will hear, within yourself, the “swaying sound of the sea”.

Look, Stranger by W.H. Auden

Look, stranger, at this island now
The leaping light for your delight discovers,
Stand stable here
And silent be,
That through the channels of the ear
May wander like a river
The swaying sound of the sea

Here at the small field’s ending pause
Where the chalk wall falls to the foam, and its tall ledges
Oppose the pluck
And knock of the tide,
And the shingle scrambles after the sucking surf, and the gull lodges
A moment on its sheer side.

Far off the floating seeds the ships
Diverge on urgent voluntary errands;
And the full view
Indeed may enter
And move in memory as now these clouds do,
That pass the harbour mirror
And all the summer through the water saunter.
